

Lake Tuscawilla (Cuscowilla)

William Bartram's Travels

Mark Van Doren Edition

- “Near the path was a large artificial mound of earth, on a most charming, high situation, supposed to be the work of the ancient Floridians or Yamasees; with other traces of an Indian town. Here were three or four Indian habitations; the women and children saluted us with cheerfulness and complaisance.” Travels, William Bartram c. 1770's.

Bartram's Cuscowilla Path

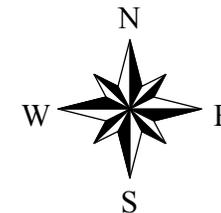

Verification of Bartram's Visit

- Francis Harper's 1940s Review.
- Z.C. Herlong and E.W. Watkins Assistance.
- GIS Criteria; 3/5 Mile East of Micanopy, North of Lake Tuscawilla and on a Ridge.
- Reviewed and Confirmed by Dr. Porter, Florida Museum of Natural History.

William Bartram's Travels

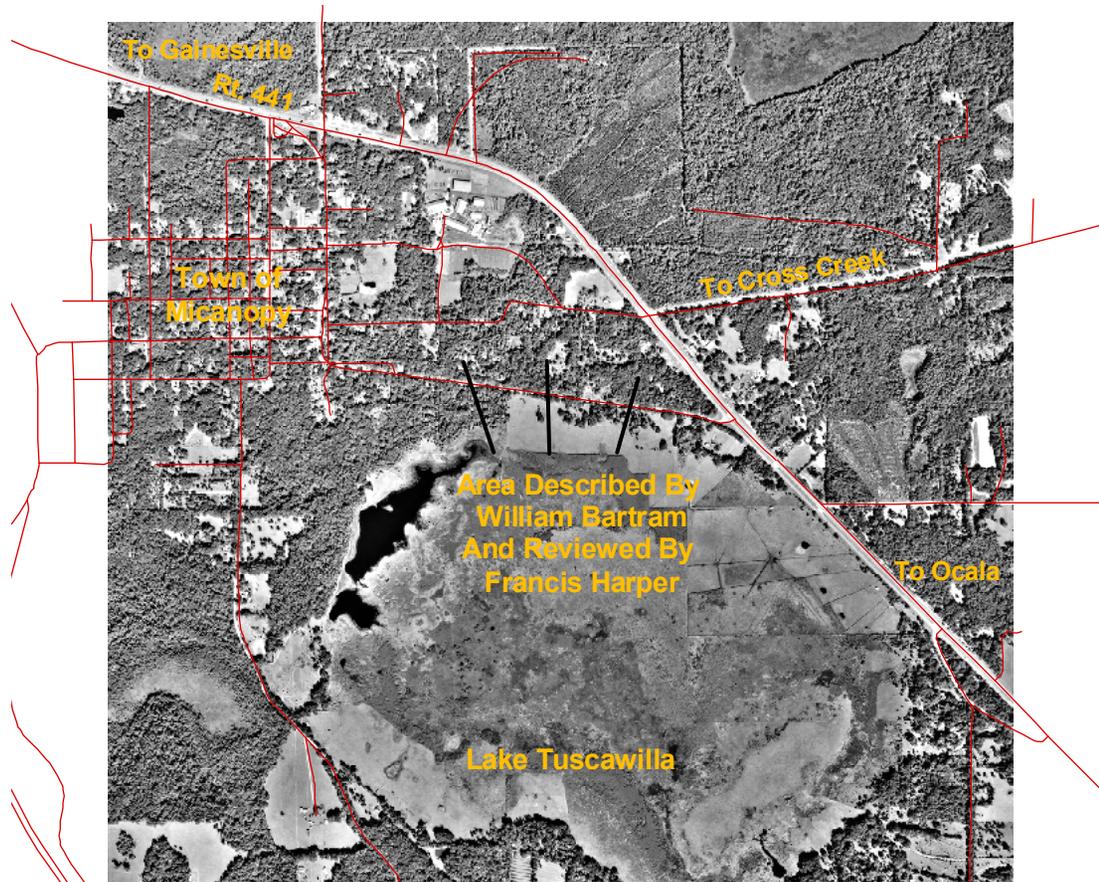

Data acquired from the Florida Geographic Data Library (FGDL). FGDL Data was acquired from Florida State agencies and compiled by the University of Florida. DataVersion 1. Map is intended for only general planning purposes.

The Road to Micanopy

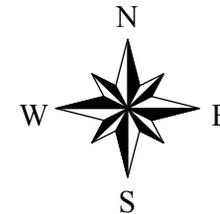

William Bartram's Travels

Roads

Data acquired from the Florida Geographic Data Library (FGDL). FGDL Data was acquired from Florida State agencies and compiled by the University of Florida. DataVersion 1. Map is intended for only general planning purposes.

1995 Aerial Photograph of Bartram's Cuscowilla Description

